If Judas were living to-day he would be a disciple of Carl Schurz and George William Curtis.

The "silent vote" in Maine was large enough to break the backbone of the democratic hope.

The democratic campaign is being pushed forward by slander and brag. But the experience of the democrats is that these are unsafe quantities in a canvass.

Dr. W. P. Stowe, formerly of Janesville, now of the Methodist Book Concern, has returned from a trip through Iowa, and he says he could not find a third party prohibitionist in that state.

One of the mottoes used by the democrats in their demonstration Saturday night was, "No Convict Labor." If the democrats are opposed to convict labor they should not furnish so many candidates for the penitentiary.

The influence of Schurz is quite interesting. Forty thousand copies of his Brooklyn speech were sent to Maine by the democrats, and Maine gave the republican ticket a larger majority than it had done in 25 years. The republicans should send Schurz's speeches in all the doubtful states.

The motion to compel the plaintiff to answer the interrogatories in the Blaine-Sentinel libel suit, was argued on Saturday, when Judge Wood over-ruled the motion stating that such compulsion was prohibited in the United States Circuit court. Mr. Blaine, however, will answer the interrogatories.

If the reports are true, the democratic state tickets will suffer the fat of lambs being led to the slaughter for Cleveland's benefit. In attempting to slaughter Fratt, Cleveland will likewise be slaughtered in Wisconsin. When the sun grows cold and Missouri goes republican, probably the democrats may carry Wisconsin.

At every presidential election since 1864, New York has furnished the democratic candidates—McClellan, Seymour, Greeley, Tilden, Hancock and Cleveland—and all stand on a common level—defeated. New York has now been warned that if it is not carried this time, it will never get the nomination again. This ought to make New York feel bad.

Hendricks is making a desperate appeal to the soldiers for their votes. The soldiers and all loyal citizens should remember one thing, that Hendricks has never done a thing that entitles him to have his name attached to the American flag. He never spoke a kind word of the government during the war, and was like Vallandigham, one of the most virulent copperheads during the struggle against rebellion.

One of the many oddities in the campaign is the fact that Mr. Hendricks, in the language of the New York Sun, "talks in a way that it is hard to understand upon any other theory than that of willingness to see Cleveland smashed." The republicans are doing a smashing business in the way of smashing the democratic votes this fall, and Mr. Hendricks will have the pleasure of seeing the head of his ticket pretty thoroughly smashed.

We never saw the democracy of Janesville more elated and hopeful than they are to-day. Their demonstration on Saturday night gave them new hope, and because the young democracy turned out well, they think the election is decided, and that Cleveland will win. If this feeling was peculiar in a democratic campaign, and each time the democrats being overwhelmingly defeated, some might be led to think the democrats were in earnest.

Under the name of "legal separation" in France, the number of divorces in that country reached one every ten marriages in 1882. This is very near the proportion in this country. From a recent report it appears that 43 per cent of the legal separation in France are from the ranks of working-men and servants, who figure in this country to a very large extent, not in cases of divorce, but of desertion.

The report comes from Milwaukee that the object of Chairman Barnum's visit to that city the other day was to arrange for a very rigorous campaign to be carried on in Wisconsin during October. The programme agreed on is to overrun the state with democratic orators after the October election in Ohio. Over 200 speakers, Barnum said, would be sent here and as many as 100 large meetings in different parts of the state per night will be held for several weeks. He is of the opinion that with the aid which will be furnished by the Milwaukee brewers the state can be carried for Cleveland. The avowed scheme of the national democratic committee is to sacrifice Fratt and the other candidates on the state ticket for Cleveland.

"Edmond Dantes," the sequel to Alexander Dumas' great novel, "The Count of Monte-Cristo," is one of the most wonderful romances ever written, and an entire new and enlarged edition of it is in press and will be published in a few days by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia. Just at the point where "The Count of Monte-Cristo" ends, "Edmond Dantes" takes up the fascinating narrative and continues it with marvelous power and absorbing interest unto the end. Besides the hero, Haydes, Mercedes, Valentine de Villefort, Eugene Danglars, Louise d' Armilly, Zuleika (Dantes daughter,) Benedetto, Lucien Debray, Albert de Morcerf, Beauchamp, Chateau-Renaud, Ali, Maximilian Morell, Giovani Massetti, and Esperance, (Dantes' son) figure prominently, while Lamartine, Ledru Rollin, Louis Blanc and hosts of other revolutionary leaders are also introduced. "Edmond Dantes" will delight all who read it.

James R. Doolittle, Judge Trumbull, Carl Schurz, George William Curtis, and other bolters will find some solid truth in this paragraph from a speech by Mr. Storrs: "This is a very remarkable party of ours, the republican party. It never had, in all its long and splendid and lustrous career, a leader who could take it one single inch in the direction it didn't want to go. Our leaders have sometimes left us, and in a wholesale way. So much the worse for the leaders, so much the better for the party. In 1872 governors and ex-governors, senators and ex-senators, judges and ex-judges, Tray, Blanche and Sweetheart, crowds of them, left us because the party, as they said, was corrupt, and how splendidly the old ship did right herself up after they got off How magnificently she made for the harbor of a splendid success; and how desolate, discomfited, and water-logged have been the leaders who jumped overboard ever since."

A GOOD ENDORSEMENT.

The State Journal gives Mr. Caswell a splendid endorsement since he was nominated for congress by the Beloit convention. In speaking of some of his work in congress, the Journal says: "Mr. Caswell was a member of congress through most of the period when the measure for the resumption of specie payments was violently combatsed by the democrats and strongly upheld by the republicans, and his thorough training and safe, conservative views upon financial questions made him a very efficient champion of that beneficent measure, the accomplishment of which gave the progress and prosperity of the country a new impetus, the grand effects of which have ever since been felt and acknowledged by all parties. In that important struggle Mr Caswell bore a prominent part, and though he was not a frequent speaker, whenever he spoke upon the subject his thorough knowledge and profound judgment upon financial topics gained for him great deference from his fellow members on both sides of the house, and he always secured an attentive hearing. His terse and matter-of-fact mode of presenting his views upon this as well as upon other subjects which came before the house during his protracted membership, always gave him great influence and that influence was with exceptional, constancy upon the right side of the question in hand."

WORDS OF SOBERNESS TO THE PROHIBITIONISTS.

There are tens of thousands of temperance people and many thousands of prohibitionists who will not vote for Mr. St. John. The national prohibition movement is ill-timed for the reason that it can never succeed. Prohibition can never be attained by supporting a national ticket, and looking at the question with soberness and intelligence, a very large majority of thoughtful temperance people will not join the movement to defeat the republican party by voting for the prohibition ticket.

If our third party friends understood the situation exactly and would consider the question in all its bearings, they would at once see the folly of attempting to build up the cause of temperance by placing the democratic party in power. Any man of reasonable intelligence, and who is not prejudiced beyond all hope of redemption, would naturally desire to put his vote where it would do the most good, and if such a man was a prohibitionist, and he clearly saw in his own mind that national prohibition was among the impossibilities of this generation, or to vote for it would tend to weaken the republican party and make the democratic party stronger, it would seem that reason would dictate to him the serious importance of holding fast to the republican party and its principles.

The reason why national prohibition is impossible is this: To prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors would require an amendment to the constitution of the United States. It can not be done without it. Did our friends the prohibitionists, ever consider what is necessary to amend the constitution? In the first place it is necessary that two-thirds of both houses of congress shall agree to a proposition to amend the constitution; and when two-thirds of the house and the senate shall have favored the proposition, then its ratification is required by three-fourths of all the states in the Union.

By what process do the prohibitionists ever expect to get in possession of two-thirds of the votes of congress? Do they think it possible, under any circumstances to control three-fourths of all the states of the Union? Looking at the question as hopefully as one possibly can from a prohibition point of view, yet faith's vision can not see the time when all this can be done. The leaves of the judgment book will likely unfold before that time will ever come. One might as well try to bridge eternity with a simple span, as to try to establish national prohibition by voting for St. John. There are elements in this country that have a voting power, and that vote would be cast against national prohibition. It is here, and here to stay, and it would be just as possible to check the onward course of a tornado by the wave of the hand, as it would to compel that vote in a majority of the states to be cast for prohibition.

State prohibition is possible. There is reason in that, because the success of the movement, so far as a submission of the question goes, depends simply upon whether a majority of the legislature is in favor of passing a constitutional amendment. This is possible in Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota, and such states as Iowa, Maine and Kansas, but it is one of the impossible things when taken as a national question.

OHIO COMES NEXT.

Both Parties Preparing for a Hot Fight in the Buckeye State.

The Official Vote of Maine—An Interview With Hendricks—Tammany's Late Action—Bulletins from the Line of Battle.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 15.—The political tide has turned to the state of Ohio. From this time until election day in October the skies will be painted red with the reflection from torches, and the woods and valleys and plains and the cities and villages will resound with campaign oratory. The speakers who made the pine trees of Maine whisper and dance are already on their way here to fall into line. Some of them will stop over in West Virginia, but Ohio is the Ultima Thule. Both of the state committees have a great array of speakers in the field.

Among those who are expected to address Democratic meetings in this state are: Thomas F. Bayard, George B. McClellan, Daniel W. Voorhees, Joseph E. McDonald, Isaac P. Gray, William F. Vilas, Marvin H. Bovee, of Wisconsin; Gens. Thomas Clunie, and John Q. Brockinridge, of California; S. S. Cox, John R. Fellows, Gen. Franz Sigel, and Gen. H. W. Slocum, of New York; Samuel J. Randall, W. A. Wallace, Daniel Dougherty, W. A. Stenger and A. G. Curtin, of Pennsylvania; J. C. S. Blackburn, John G. Carlisle, James A. McKenzie, James B. Beck, of Kentucky; William R. Morrison, Carter Harrison, George Hoadly, Henry B. Payne, R. P. Ramsey, Gen. Durbin Ward, and other leading speakers in the state. Some of the largest barbecues ever held in the state have been arranged for. Both of the candidates for vice president will take part in the Ohio canvass. Hendricks is booked for a meeting at Hamilton, and Logan at Cincinnati. They may be brought out in other counties.

Next Saturday General Logan will be at Youngstown, and from reports that have been received at headquarters the meeting promises to be an immense gathering of the Republicans of the western reserve. The following week Boutelle and Frye, of Maine, Colonel Carr, of Illinois, Peck, of Kansas, Hiscock, of New York, ex-Governor Stone, of Iowa, and many other speakers of national reputation will be on the stump until the campaign closes.

An Interview with Hendricks.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 15.—Ex-Governor Hendricks was asked Saturday by a newspapers correspondent whether, while in the United States senate, he favored the eight-hour law. He said: "I did so far as it related to government employes, and these are all it could affect. I think eight hours put in solidly is a good while to work, especially for those whose labor is hard, as at the navy yard, for example."

"What estimate do you put upon the result in Maine, Mr. Hendricks?"

"I think it is an evidence that the Republicans are united and harmonious. There are no quarrels among them in Maine as there have been. I should have supposed that with a united party the Republicans would have carried Maine by about the majority they had on Monday."

"Is the result there a significant straw?"

"It is encouraging to some Republicans, of course, but is not at all a finality."

Mr. Hendricks was of the opinion that Indiana was safe for the Democracy.

Logan at Detroit.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Gen. Logan arrived at Detroit on the yacht Sigma on Saturday at 8 p. m. A large crowd met the party at the wharf, where carriages were in waiting to take them to Detroit, where a meeting was held immediately. The Hon. Thomas W. Palmer presided and spoke briefly. Gen. Alger followed, and then Gen. Logan spoke. Having made ten speeches while in the state during the last two days the speaker's voice was not strong and he had trouble in making the crowd hear. He spoke chiefly on the tariff and the history of the Democratic party, paying his respects to Thomas A. Hendricks, especially taking note of Mr. H.'s discussion of the surplus in the treasury. John Atchinson of this city, also spoke briefly. The rink building has a standing capacity of 15,000, and was crowded. Gen. Logan stopped in Detroit over Sunday, the guest of Gen. R. A. Alger, the Republican candidate for governor of Michigan.

The Official Vote of Maine.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 15.—The Kennebec Journal publishes the vote of the state, nearly complete, from official returns. The vote of this year for governor is compared with the governor vote of 1880. The following is the summary: Total vote for governor, 140,436. Robie has 77,770; Redman, 58,070; H. B. Eaton, 3,147; W. F. Eaton, 188; Eustis, 1,157; scattering, 95. Robie's majority over Redman in 1884 is 19,707, against a Democratic majority in 1880 of 169 Plaisted over Davis. The total vote is the largest ever cast for governor at any election except one. The Republican gain since 1880, by the official vote, is 19,378, with eighteen small towns and plantations to hear from, returns from which will not materially change the result. Four Republican members of congress are elected by majorities ranging from about 1,000 to 6,000. The legislature stands: Senate, wholly Republican; house, 116 Republicans, 14 Democrats; one district to hear from. The vote cast for the prohibitory amendment to the constitution is 64,597, against 20,234; the amendment is adopted by a majority of 44,283.

Looking Up His Record.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 15.—A. C. Cameron, of Chicago, chairman of the executive committee of the State Labor party, arrived here Sunday. His purpose is twofold—to confer with local managers of the Labor party and look up the legislative records of such men as the laboring men of Chicago will oppose. Among others is W. H. Harner, author of the high license law. He is also circulating the address of the executive committee of the state Labor party in large quantities. The address is an indorsement of the Democratic state ticket and platform. It is said that Cameron is after the record of Harper previous to the latter's election to the legislature.

What is Thought of Tammany.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Tammany hall's avowal of allegiance to the regular Democratic ticket was the sole topic of discussion in political circles Saturday. The Democrats are jubilant, the Republicans skeptical, while the managers of the People's party are convinced that ex-Senator Grady's declaration for Butler expressed the real sentiments of a majority of the Tammany braves. It is regarded as certain that Tammany hall will thus secure a firmer grasp of the New York city government than ever before.

Colorado Republicans.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 15.—At 1 o'clock Saturday morning the Republican state convention took a recess until 10. On reassembling the convention completed the list of nominations, as follows: H. A. Spruance, of Georgetown, for auditor, and F. F. Audsloton, B. F. Crowell, and F. C. Goudy for presidential electors. W. C. Lathrop, of Denver, was made chairman of the state central committee.

The resolutions adopted approve the platform of the National Republican convention, and indorse the nomination of Blaine and Logan; ask that the duty on wool be restored to the tariff of 1867, and that the southern Ute Indians be removed from the state. Adjourned sine die.

Along the Front.

Ex-Governor Oglesby addressed a very large gathering at Streator, Ill., Saturday.

Chairman Barnum was in consultation with the state Democratic committee of Wisconsin Saturday.

Republicans and Greenbackers of Arkansas are preparing to fuse on the electoral ticket.

Hon. D. W. Voorhees addressed a Democratic mass meeting at Evansville, Saturday.

It is said that Samuel J. Tilden has sent a contribution of $5,000 to the Democratic national committee.

Ben Butler has arrived in New York. He was serenaded at his hotel by the county organization of the People's party, and made a short speech.

Hon. Carter H. Harrison addressed a large Democratic mass meeting at Effingham, Ills., Saturday. He devoted a considerable portion of his speech to prohibition.

Murat Halstead says Mr. Blaine will probably visit Cincinnati, and may visit other western cities.

The Indiana Democracy is endeavoring to make the prohibition question the leading issue in that state. It is expected that Carl Schurz will make four speeches—at Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and Evansville.

In the Blaine libel suit at Indianapolis last Saturday, the plaintiff's attorneys denied the right of the defendant to demand answers to the questions recently propounded, but Senator Harrison stated that they would be answered, declining at the same time to fix a day, but stating that it would be very soon. Judge Wood said it had not been the practice to allow such questions in United States courts, and he preferred to consult on the matter with Judge Drummond's successor before he made a rule either way.

FRIGHTFUL FLOODS.

Seventy Thousand Persons Believed to Have Perished in China.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15.—The San Pablo arrived Saturday evening with Hong Kong dates of Aug. 14 and Yokohama Aug. 30. Information has reached Canton of a frightful inundation in the Kiang Sai province. The news is dated from King Tak, chief of the center of the pottery manufacture, and one of the four great markets of the empire. The floods lasted four days. The entire country is submerged to the depth of sixty feet. Whole towns are swept away. It is believed fully 70,000 persons perished. It is feared pestilence would follow.

DEATH OF ROBERT HOE.

A Member of the Great Printing Press Firm Passes Away.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Mr. Robert Hoe, of the firm of R. Hoe & Co., died, Saturday, at his summer residence in Tarrytown on the Hudson.

Mr. Hoe was born seventy years ago in New York city, and was the son of Robert Hoe, an Englishman who came to the United States in 1803 from Hose, in Leicestershire, and founded the business house of R. Hoe & Co., the well-known manufacturers of printing presses. When quite a young man Robert Hoe, with his brother, Richard M., succeeded to the business established by their father. He was always a public-spirited, liberal-minded citizen, identifying himself with all that was for the best interests of his native city and country. While an active member of a number of business corporations, he also gave much of his time and means to individual charities. It is doubtful whether one of the more than 1,000 hands in the employ of his firm can recall a harsh or unkind word spoken by Robert Hoe. Mr. Hoe was of a quiet and retiring disposition, and although taking much interest in political matters never sought any prominent public position, although he served as a member of the committee of seventy organized in 1871 to reform the city government. He was a member of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, and leaves a widow, one daughter, and one son. Mr. Hoe lived in Tarrytown during the summer for the past sixteen years. For the last year or two he had not been very strong. Two weeks ago he was attacked with malarial fever and never rallied. Mr. Hoe was fond of art and gathered a fine collection of paintings. He was ever ready to help on young artists, and was one of the early promoters of the National Academy of Design.

Surrendered Its Charter.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 15.—Belmont lodge of the Amalgamated association of this city Saturday night surrendered its charter and other lodge property. This is thought to be the first movement toward the disintegration of the association. This action has been taken on account of the opposition of the nailers to assist the manufacturers in their efforts to make steel nails a success. They say that if they become a success the amalgamation is done for. Resolutions were passed characterizing the action of the Riverside and Bellaire nailers in refusing to abide by the law adopted by the association, and embodies their unanimous belief that it is fully demonstrated that it is a waste of time and money to keep their lodge in existence any longer, for by so doing, they would be aiding unscrupulous and unprincipled men who are working directly against the nailers' interests.

Looks Like Resumption of Hostilities.

PARIS, Sept. 15.—The Temps' correspondent at Hai Fong, an open port near the mouth of an arm of the Tonquin river, telegraphs that six companies of marines from the French garrison left there Sunday under orders to join Admiral Courbet, who has started north from Mateon with his entire fleet. Six other companies have gone from Saigon, the capital of, French Cochin-China, on a like mission. The dispatch of these reinforcements to the front is evidence that the admiral has received Premier Ferry's telegraphic orders to resume warlike operations at once, although China has not declared war.

Fatal Explosion of a Tug.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 15.—The boiler of the steam tug Frank Somers exploded Sunday near City Point, and the boat sunk. Capt. James Cavanaugh, of Philadelphia, and Fireman Dancey, were drowned. The balance of the crew were saved. The Somers was towing a schooner to Richmond when the explosion took place. Cavanaugh's body was recovered.

HUMBERT THE HEROIC.

Italy Glories in the Possession of a King Worth Having.

How He Goes Into the Cholera-Stricken Slums—Great Destitution —Virulence of the Scourge— The Death Record.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The reign of terror caused by the plague in Naples has somewhat subsided, thanks chiefly to the visit of King Humbert. His unhesitating bravery has shamed the wealthy fugitives into returning to the city, and, by their exertions and examples, putting some heart into the poorer and more ignorant inhabitants. King Humbert has now repeatedly visited every slum in the city, and in his passage to and fro he is always escorted by a reverential but frowsy crowd of poor and ragged wretches. Poor women, gaunt with famine, press forward with their emaciated babies, and are happy if the king looks at or speaks a word to the children. Others seek to kiss the good King's hands or some portion of his garments, and they are always unchecked by the monarch, despite the horrified entreaties of his suite. Wherever the king shows himself the whole population turns out to do him honor, and old residents state that the enthusiasm exceeds that which was manifested when Garebaldi entered Naples and was hailed as the savior of Italy. The king's example has stimulated the Neapolitan noblemen, who now vie with each other in acts of practical charity. The marquis of Campodesola has opened free food depots which are personally directed by various members of noble families. King Humbert has made a round of these depots, inspecting all the arrangements and tasting the food, which he pronounced good and wholesome. At the principal depot he met and embraced the marquis of Campodesola, warmly thanking him for the good work he had done for the people. The ladies are also as active and energetic in the work of relieving distress as their husbands and brothers. The Countess Santsavrino and many other ladies of the highest nobility are working like slaves in the ambulance service of the Red Cross society and in nursing the sick under the direction of the sanitary commission.

The king wished to explore the Fondaici, containing probably the most hideous human habitations in Christendom, with its narrow court-yards, its houses eight feet high, the sunlight and air excluded, and the filthiest rooms, each with a dozen or fifteen inmates of both sexes. There is no water there to wash with. The place is alive with vermin. It is a literal sink of pestilence, and contains fully one-fourth of the whole population of Naples. All efforts to dissuade the king from going had failed, when a despairing official cried out: "You have no right to commit suicide, nor have you a right to deliberately murder many of these unfortunate people who will follow you even into that hotbed of death."

Upon this the king bowed and got into his carriage again.

It is estimated that 150,000 persons are destitute, owing to the paralysis of business, and scenes of want and misery are witnessed on every hand. In the Mercato quarter the health authorities found thousands of poor wretches living in dark, damp, and filthy cellars. Many of them were so reduced by want and sickness that they looked like spectres, but they still clung to their wretched tenements, and it required force to remove them to clean and comfortable quarters. Eight barrels of carbolic acid were scattered about the cellars, and even that liberal application of disinfectant failed to suppress the horrible stench.

Almost incredible stories are told of the rapidity with which the cholera has carried off its victims. In some families four or five members have been swept off together. An old woman and a boy falling together in the street in Naples were both taken up dead; a lady seized with vomiting while at mass, died on reaching home. In fact, death in many cases has occurred within ten minutes of the first symptoms. Many persons have died within three or four hours, and the fatal cases have rarely lasted more than five or six hours. The plague has land, according to all accounts, to a revival of religious feeling so strong that the archbishop himself has had to discourage religious processions as tending to increase disease. The gambling spirit has also received a great impetus. Thus one day fifty-two mothers rushed to a school and took away fifty-one children, and everybody played these numbers in the government lottery and all won. In another day these numbers 3, 4 and 22 corresponded to current events in the streets and were played extensively, and all three came out. The result was a loss of 3,000,000 francs by the government, a general debauch by the lucky inhabitants and a violent increase of the cholera.

The king is the reigning hero of Europe, and George Augusta Sala, the celebrated journalist, gives as one of his many virtues that he wears in public in Rome a low-crowned hat.

In France there are forty-seven places in the Pyrenees Orientales, where the disease has appeared, producing death, the latest being Estober, a village of 350 souls, where twenty-four persons died within the first two days. In the whole department there have now been nearly 500 deaths, and in all France there have been about 5,100 in 207 cities and villages.

In Spain there have really been over 150 deaths from cholera, and these in the province of Alicante. There are no means of telling how many deaths have occurred in the northern province of Lorida.

The Cholera Report.

ROME, Sept. 15.—There was a slight decrease in the number of deaths from cholera officially reported during the twenty-four hours ending noon Sunday, 848 persons having died and 642 fresh cases having been registered during that period. In this city there were no deaths.

Humbert's Reception at Rome.

ROME, Sept. 15.—King Humbert, on his return from Naples Sunday, was greeted by the populace with great enthusiasm. There have been 8,297 deaths from cholera at Naples alone since the outbreak of the epidemic.

Wants to Fight Kilrain.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 15.—Dominick McCaffroy, the pugilist, issues the following challenge: "I will fight Jake Kilrain, of Boston, with small gloves, marquis of Queensbury rules, four or six rounds, or to a finish, for from $250 to $1,000 a side; the fight to take place either in Pittsburg or New York, and the winner to take all the receipts of the house. I have deposited $100 forfeit with The Pittsburg Times as a guarantee.
[Signed,] DOMINICK MCCAFFREY."

The First Casualty.

CAIRO, Sept. 15.—While a boat was being hauled up the rapids of the Nile at Wady Halfa it capsized, and three sailors were drowned. This is the first casualty attending the advance detachment of the Nile expedition.

SETTLED THEIR DIFFICULTY.

Two Texas Stockmen Fight to the Death with Knives.

WACO, Tex., Sept. 15.—A terrible encounter occurred, Sunday evening, at Abbott, a station thirty miles north of this city, in which two lives were lost. Marion Teague and John Friar, both well-known stockmen, became embroiled in a difficulty over a division of stock owned jointly. While sitting at a table discussing the matter, Friar suddenly attacked Teague with a bowie-knife. Teague as quick as flash drew his dirk, and the two men fought, with the small table between them, scarcely moving from the spot. Several persons witnessed the terrible duel, but dared not interfere. The combatants glared at each other like wild beasts, each watching his opportunity to strike. Friar made several false motions, which Teague successfully parried with his dirk. Finally both men seemed to nerve themselves for the fatal lunge, and each threw himself with terrific force against the other. Teague received a terrible gash in the neck, severing the arteries. Friar was stabbed near the heart. Both men fell on the table, Teague dropping to the floor and expiring instantly from loss of blood. Friar survived nearly an hour, with the dirk sticking in his breast. When the physician withdrew the knife a stream of blood spurted several yards, and Friar rapidly sank, scarcely a word escaping him. It is said the men had been warm friends. Both leave families in a distant portion of the state.

The Messer Tragedy.

BOONTON, N. J. Sept. 15.—People talked Saturday of nothing but the suicide of William W. Messer and his shooting his wife and daughter. Mrs. and Miss Messer are in a very critical condition. Mrs. Messer may die very soon. There is only the faintest hope for her recovery. There is a greater chance for Miss Messer recovery, but even in that event she will be paralyzed for life. Arthur S. Messer, the son, said: "Father was not merely temporarily insane, I think he never would have been himself again after the sunstroke in August. I noticed recently that his judgment was weak, and he would talk in a rambling and foolish way until the subject was changed."

Paid in the Cash.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 15.—John S. C. Harrison, the receiver of the Indiana Banking company, Saturday paid into court the amount with which he was chargeable on such trust, amounting to $95,448.40. This result has been expected for some days. Through his attorneys Harrison made a formal return exhibiting the condition of the trust, and settlement followed. Harrison contributed $30,000 toward the result, and his bondsmen, Charles Mayer, William Haucison, George Stout, William Haerle, and George Manfeld, made up the balance—$65,448, each giving his check to the clerk of the court for $13,089.

DISOWNED HER.

Morosini's Runaway Daughter Goes to See Her Father.

The Old Gentleman Does Not See Matters as Mrs. Schelling Does, and Disowns His Child.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Miss Morosini and Schelling, the coachman, arrived at Yonkers at 6 o'clock Sunday morning on a train from the north. They were recognized as soon as they stepped from the train, and were taken to the police station, where the lady stated that she had returned in response to a communication from her father to the effect that her mother was dying. Her brother was sent for, who swore out a warrant accusing his sister Victoria of stealing a diamond cross from her sister Julia. She claimed to have taken the cross by mistake, it being a duplicate of her own. The magistrate told her she was entitled to counsel, and set the case for trial on the 22d inst. The prisoner was released without bail, and with Schelling drove to Wormer's saloon, over which they took up their residence in a room formerly occupied by Schelling.

Later in the day Schelling escorted his wife to the Morosini mansion, remaining outside himself. In half an hour Victoria came out, looking as if she had been crying, and the couple again went to Wormer's. After dinner the manœuvre was repeated, Miss Morosini remaining in the house two hours and again returned to the room over the saloon.

All the parties absolutely refused to talk to reporters. It is understood that Mrs. Morosini is very ill, and that the father, after an interview with Victoria, refused to longer recognize her as his daughter.

Another account says that when Mrs. Schelling and her husband reached her father's house Mr. Morosini opened the door himself and put out his hands impulsively. "My daughter!" he said. Mrs. Hulzkamp did not forget that she was under arrest. She simply put out one gloved hand and answered: "How do you do, father?" All were amazed at the daughter's coolness and utter indifference to all the members of the family, not excepting her sick mother. She was as impassionate as marble. Her father pleaded with her almost on his knees to come home again and all would be forgiven. "Not without Ernest," was the invariable reply. She was assured that the coachman should never set his foot inside the door, but that a home was ready for her whenever she chose to return to it. Her mother was unconscious when she entered the sick-room, and did not recognize her. Mr. Morosini bent down and whispered in her ear: "Vic has come, dear." Mrs. Morosini opened her eyes, held out her arms toward her daughter, and for about two minutes regained consciousness. Then she relapsed again and did not utter a coherent word until after sunset. Mrs. Hulzkamp remained at home about twenty minutes, and then, without bidding her sister or brothers good-bye, she rejoined her husband in the carriage and drove off. Not to a quiet, respectable hotel away from her home and out of the public thoroughfare, but to a shabby, low, German saloon and lodging-house, where her husband used to board, not five minutes' walk from the splendid house from which she ran away.

Mr. Morosini talked with a friend who called on him just after his daughter had left the house. The excitement, coupled with anxiety for his wife's illness, had almost broken him down. "She is not my child," he said, wringing his hands. "I lost a lovable, dutiful daughter. She returns a perfect fury." Friends from far and near called at the house during the afternoon to offer sympathy. Several went from this city. To all of them Mr. Morosini told about the same story. His love for his daughter had vanished with the night.

A Girl's Horrible Death.

OAKLAND, Md., Sept. 15.—News comes from Fairfax store, Grant county, W. Va., that Miss Ella Sours, daughter of the proprietor of a boarding-house on the new railroad, a lady of 22, met a horrible death near there a few days ago. Some railroad men were engaged in felling trees around the house, and the young lady was standing in the door watching them. A large tree struck a dead pine in falling, and both fell toward the house, a limb striking the girl and burying her beneath the mass of brush. When found, a limb two inches in diameter had passed directly through her head from one cheek to the other. Another limb penetrated the brain through an eye, and her skull was fractured in several places.

Uncle Sam Defied at Home.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Sept. 15.—A southbound freight train of the St. Louis & Texas railway was attached Friday at 1 o'clock, and is still detained, by a constable at Fordyce, a station forty miles south of here. The execution was based on a trivial judgment. The road being in the hands of a receiver, Judge Caldwell, of the Federal court, caused a telegram to be sent to the constable to release the train. That dignitary refuses to recognize the authority of the United States judge, and the United States marshal went down Saturday morning at 11 o'clock to arrest the officer for contempt and release the train. There is considerable excitement about the affair.

New Theory of British Origin.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Mr. Edward Hine, the apostle of Anglo-Israelism, is to start for the United States on Oct. 1. He proposes to make a lecturing tour of the states, beginning in New York Oct. 18, and then to go to Australia. Mr. Hine has secured proofs which seem to him irrefutable of the identity of the English people with the lost tribes of Israel, and he hopes to be able to convert the American people to this view. He also claims to have discovered fresh proofs that the Americans are identical with the descendant of Manasseh.

Valuables Shipped in Trunks.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—At a meeting of the Chicago Railway Association of Passenger agents it has been resolved, in view of the fact that it has been held by the courts that a railway company must pay for losses sustained by travelers, when trunks containing large quantities of jewelry or other articles of extraordinary value are lost when shipped as baggage, to demand a certificate that trunks presented for shipment do not contain such articles; in case of refusal of such certificate the company will refuse to take the package as baggage.

Courbet Is an Irishman.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Admiral Courbet is an Irishman, his father being a Cork man, who, on emigrating, changed his name from the Irish Corbet to the more Gallic Courbet.

CHINA'S TWO ARMIES.

The Imperial Army Proper and the Provincial Army.

A Force Amounting to 760,000 Men—The Imperial Guard—Three Separate Fleets—Forts, Arsenals, Arms and Ammunition.

[Chicago Times.]

China has two separate armies. The imperial army proper is known under the name of the Army of the Eight Banners. It is divided into eight corps, each being distinguished by a peculiar banner. This army almost forms a military caste, for it is composed exclusively of the descendants of the Mantchus—Mongolians and Chinese rebels who in 1651 invaded China and dethroned the old imperial family. During peace the men of this caste are allowed to conduct any common business, being forbidden only to leave their city without a permit from the commanding officer. The officers excel their men only in gymnastics. According to the Chinese notions, no man is fit to be an officer unless he is an athlete. This army numbers 210,000 men. Of these over one-half are stationed in Pekin, and the rest in a few large provincial cities. The military caste can by no means be regarded as a regular army. The second, or provincial army, is called the Army of the Great Banner. Each of the eighteen provinces of the empire is obliged by law to keep a certain number of soldiers, and the aggregate, according to the official statistics, is 650,000 men. There are eighty generals and over 7,000 officers. The provincial army is composed chiefly of mercenaries, while the majority of the officers are of the military estate. These two armies, amounting to 760,000 men, are all the force the Celestial empire has to rely on in case of war.

The imperial guard, about 18,000 strong, is the flower of the army. Of the guard infantry, 5,200 men are provided with muzzle-loaders presented by the czar of Russia; the rest are armed with flint guns, lances and shields. Half of the cavalry, about 2,000 men, are armed with Chassepot rifles. The artillery has thirty-two bronze guns, bought in Russia, and a few mortars. There are 1,750 educated artillerymen. The army of the governor of Chjily, about 80,000 strong, is also reorganized. The men are instructed by English and French officers. The army has breech-loading rifles and Krupp steel cannon. According to German writers, up to 1879, Krupp had sent to China 150 heavy guns, and 275 field guns. The army of the governor of Khan-Zu and Shan Zee, 40,000 strong, is said to be supplied with all the modern arms and to be drilled according to the principles of Moltke and Manteuffel. This army fought successfully against Yakoob Beg, and, indeed, proved itself the best disciplined army in China. It is obvious, then, that in China there are only about 120,000 men properly armed and drilled, while the rest of the soldiers can be regarded only as undisciplined and unarmed reserves.

As to gunpowder and arms the Chinamen apparently have an abundant supply of their own. There are eight excellent arsenals, directed chiefly by Englishmen. The arsenal of Jian-Zin, for instance, turns out daily 3,000 pounds of powder. At the arsenal of Nankin and Shanghai the American guns of Remington and Spencer are manufactured. At Foo Chow arsenal sub-marine mines are prepared. At the Lan Choo arsenal cartridges and arms are manufactured. The forts are found at the mouths of the great rivers Tsi Kiang, Min and Yang-tse-Kiang, to protect the great cities Canton, Foo Chow and Shanghai. In the interior of the country all the large cities are also protected by forts. The capital city of Pekin is, of course, the most strongly protected. It is defended by Fort Daku, amply provided with Krupp cannon, and is surrounded by stone walls from forty to seventy feet thick and forty feet high. Nine gates lead to the city, and these are defended by cannon mounted in the numerous towers.

China has three separate fleets. The Canton fleet comprises twelve gunboats, of which nine were made in England and are in charge of English officers. The Fu-kiang fleet is composed of six gunboats and a few transport vessels. These were made at Foo Chow, under the supervision of Frenchmen. This fleet is in excellent order, and it is in charge of Chinamen. The Shanghai fleet is composed of nine gunboats, two frigates, and several transport vessels. All of these were made by themselves and are rather insignificant. Recently China has got from England eight iron-clads, armed with guns of the largest caliber. The strongest and most effective part of the Chinese fleet is made up of thirteen small gunboats, named after the letters of the Greek alphabet, of 1,350 tons displacement. They are built of steel, and are propelled by twin screws driven by compound engines of, together, 2,600 indicated horse-power. They each carry two twenty-six ton ten-inch breech-loading guns, mounted upon center pivots, one forward and one aft. Each of these heavy guns commands a nearly all round fire. The charge of the gun is 180 pounds of powder, the weight of projectile 400 pounds, and the penetrative power equal to piercing eighteen inches of solid, unbacked iron plate. They carry besides in each four forty-pounder breech-loading guns, two nine-pounder breech loading guns, two Nordenfeldts and four Gatlings, and, furthermore, two steam cutters fitted with spar torpedoes. The vessels are also armed with a formidable teel knife edge spur or ram.

A Fair Offer.

The True Test.

If a man is hungry within an hour more or less, after a meal, he is a dyspeptic. It shows his stomach is not able to dispose of what he has eaten. But to eat and thus impose more work is an absurdity. Take Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which cures dyspepsia and all stomach, liver, kidney and bladder troubles. It is a perfect tonic, appetizer, blood purifier, a sure cure for ague and malaria diseases. Price 50 cents, of Stearn's & Baker.

BOTH KNOCKED DIZZY.

Brutal Prize Fight Between Unscientific Sluggers.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—There has not been since the days when brutal fights took place on Pettys island such an encounter between local pugilists as that which occurred on the Reed flats, a mile below Penrose ferry bridge, Saturday morning at daybreak. Twenty-seven unscientific rounds were fought, in which both men's faces were beaten into a semblance of raw beef, and the contestants dropped together in the last round weak from the loss of blood, and blinded by the terrible blows which had been exchanged. The combatants were John Higgins, a blacksmith, and Terence Murphy, a huckster. When they had been fighting for twenty-five minutes their faces were battered, the knuckles of their fists were skinned and bloody, and both men were so nearly blind that they could hardly see to strike a blow. Still they fought, although their frightened friends, who expected to see one or both drop dead, urged them to stop. Higgins snarled between his bloody lips, "I'm going to kill him before I stop." The fierce fighting was over. Both men were too weak to do either further harm; yet they fought on until they tottered on their feet. With a great effort Higgins summoned all his strength and struck Murphy a powerful blow on the neck. Murphy was surprised and angered and made a fierce attack on Higgins, striking him twice on his bleeding mouth. Then the men closed in and fell together, with each other's head in chancery. They could not rise, but lay panting on the soggy ground. The fight was over. Murphy and Higgins were left in a little half tumble-down whitewashed shanty on the Yellow Farm road, while two of their friends started for town for medical assistance. Murphy spit blood for some time. Higgins lay in a comatose condition for two hours.

Took the Town for a Short Time.

WELLINGTON, Kan., Sept. 15.—This city was thrown into the wildest excitement Saturday morning by the sudden appearance on the streets of Frank Jones armed with a rifle. He fired into the residences of various citizens. He first went to the home of John I. Anderson and fired several shots into the building, and then repaired to the home of J. M. McKee, through which he fired twelve shots, smashing the furniture and wounding a child. The alarm was quickly raised and in a few minutes the citizens were up in arms. Jones was on a pony, and riding up Washington street, shot William Gaines, the street commissioner, inflicting a very dangerous wound. Jones then rode to the house of his brother, Sylvester Jones, and discharged several shots into it, but the family had escaped to a neighbor's. He then fled to the country, but was pursued and captured about a mile from town. About a week ago Jones was brought before a jury to have his sanity passed upon. Since then he has threatened the lives of all who testified against him, and Saturday he was endeavoring to carry his threats into execution. Public opinion seems divided as to his insanity. He is now in jail, and great fear is entertained that he will be lynched.

Gresham to Go Out of Politics.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The Tribune's New York special says: Gen. Gresham has, after much hesitation and indecision, finally decided to go out of politics. He will not be the secretary of the treasury. He has thought the matter fully over, and realizes that the position could not last over the 4th of next March; so, perhaps wisely for himself, he has decided to accept the office of United States judge in Chicago to fill the vacancy made by the retirement of Judge Drummond. He has gone back to Washington to wind up his affairs on the postoffice department. He now intends to be in Chicago by the 1st of October, so as to enter upon his discharge of the duties of his new position at the opening of the fall term of court. This decision is absolute and final. Frank Hatton will in all probability succeed him. The president has no further choice as yet for secretary of the treasury.

Jay-Eye-See Reported Sick.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A telegram from Kalamazoo says that the attempt of Jay-Eye-See at that race Saturday to beat his record was a failure. The day was fine and cold, but a strong east wind made it a foregone conclusion that no record-breaking would be done. The gelding made a warming up mile in 2:27¾, and seemed in good condition, although he had a chill after going back to his stable. He was speeded again, however, but could do no better than 2:20¼, and was evidently laboring when he came home. It is feared the horse will have an attack of lung fever, and all his engagements have been canceled. Phallas was speeded twice and made 2:19¼, 2:19¼.

They Got Hold of the Wrong Men.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 15.—The Illinois Central train was boarded at Crystal Springs Saturday night by Robert Marlow and "Sonny" Smith, two young men, who amused themselves by going through the train insulting passengers. Those asleep were awakened by a kick or a blow, and protest was checked by revolvers in the hands of the hoodlums. They insulted Ike Hoskins and S. R. Bell, who had in their charge some penitentiary convicts. Bell replied with a blow. The parties then began firing. Several shots were exchanged. Marlow was fatally wounded. Bell was shot in the hand.

The Kaiser's Feebleness.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—At the annual manoeuvers of the Army of the Rhine the emperor will not review the troops in person, owing to his feebleness. He will be represented by the Crown Prince Frederick William.

How Did It Get There, Angels?

LEEDS, Sept. 15.—A dynamite cartridge has been found in a cask of petroleum which recently arrived here from America.

PUT YOUR HAND

In a vice, turn the screw until the pain is all you can possibly bear, and that's Rheumatism; turn the screw once more, and that's Neuralgia. The latter statement is no longer true, for it has been proved time and again that

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effectual an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Briefiets.

—Good Templars night.

—"Early in the Morning," at the opera house this evening.

—Only one drunk was captured on Saturday evening, and another on Sunday.

—The prohibitionists had a very small mass meeting to-day to nominate county officers.

—The association of railroad conductors give a party in the Guards' armory this evening.

—Smith, Waldron, Cronin and Martin have always been regarded as the greatest of grotesque comedians.

—The republicans will now go to work and double discount the democratic demonstration, and not halt try.

—State fair week at Madison, and many Janesville people will visit the fair, should the weather prove favorable.

—The noted beauties, Hattie Geary and Inez Shepard, are with Smith, Waldron, Cronin and Martin's Grotesque Comedy company at the opera house this evening.

—A number of railroad conductors have already arrived in the city to attend the dance given by the railroad conductors association at the Guards armory this evening.

—W. T. Melville, the famous comedian, who by many is regarded far superior to Stuart Robson, will play Major Bland in "Early in the Morning," at the opera house this evening.

—Mr. John Brown, the contractor grading South First street, desires people not to attempt to pass that street until the grading is finished, as it is now all torn up and is impassable for vehicles —The burglars entered the farm house of Mr. Guy Wheeler, in the town of La Prairie, last evening, and succeeded in obtaining a watch, chain and a small amount of money belonging to a hired man. No clue.

—It was rather a hard gag on a prominent Janesville democrat, Saturday evening, while he was "going wild" over the claim that there were over 1,200 torches in the line;—that that number had been secured and every one had been given out—to see a dray bring up in the rear with at least four hundred torches stacked in a crate. Tom slid out of the crowd, wondering why the darned drayman didn't go on a back street. It is ever thus.

—We clip the following from the Racine Journal which speaks well for the new Badger stove. The manufacturers have reason to congratulate themselves "The old stove must go." The Badger Range manufactured by the Badger Stove company, took the first premium at the Wisconsin Industrial exposition, and must, in our opinion, meet with grand success. It is manufactured on entirely new principles. 1st. the fire pot is round and constructed like the fire pot in the self-feeding base burner stoves. There is no waste of coal, and the fire is kept constantly burning without letting it go out for the purpose of cleaning the fire box. In cold winter weather there is no occasion for a cold kitchen in the morning. 2d. The heat is taken down under the oven directly in front instead of passing over the top and down the back flues: the result is, the oven is heated from the bottom first, instead of the top, and this is done with less fuel. 3d. There are two ventilators on either side of the fire box which admit of air from the room which is passed around the fire pot into the oven and the result is it is the most perfect baker in the market. The Badger ranges and stoves are for sale by H. Raymond, where they can be seen and examined. Parties wishing to purchase a range or cooking stove should call and see this new departure before purchasing. They are certainly a success.

Ayer's Ague Cure stimulates the action of the liver, cleanses the blood of malarial poison, and restores the system to renewed vigor. Warranted to cure fever and ague.

The Big Four.

"Early in the Morning" is a fine piece of comedy in three acts. W. H. Smith as "Kansas Pete," a typical bad man of the west; Dan Waldron, as "George McGlory," a happy-go-lucky young surveyor; T. J. Cronin, as "Girald Griffin," from Inniskillin, Ireland, and Master Martin as "Willie Fly," a mischievous young fellow from Keokuk, "Iowah," keeps the audience in one continual roar of laughter by their grotesque performances and practical jokes. W. T. Melville, who impersonated "Our Papa—Major Bland," is a splendid comedian and Miss Helene Dutton as "Johanna," captivates the house by her dancing, singing and acting. The "Big Four" are formidable rivals of the famous Hanlans in acrobatic feats.

Thousands Say So.

Mr. T. W. Atkins, Girard, Kan., writes: "I never hesitate to recommend your Electric Bitters to my customers, they give entire satisfaction and are rapid sellers." Electric Bitters are the purest and best medicine known and will positively cure Kidney and Liver complaints. Purify the blood and regulate the bowels. No family can afford to be without them. They will save hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills every year. Sold at 50 cents a bottle by F. Sherer & Co.

Expensive doctor bills might be saved by a little prudence. Lyman Judd, Esq., of New Haven, Conn., was taken to his home in a carriage suffering excruciating pain from rheumatism. They thought he was going to be laid up for a month or more, and were about to send for a doctor, but were advised to try Athlophoros. Let him continue the narrative: "I commenced with it at once and took it until two o'clock the next morning. Then I fell asleep and slept the balance of the night, and awoke the next morning free from pain, and in fact, my rheumatism was all gone."

Griggs Glycerine Salve.

The best on earth, can truly be said of Griggs' Glycerine Salve, which is a sure cure for cuts, bruises, scalds, burns, wounds, and all other sores. JUBILANT DEMOCRATS.

They Feel Joyful at the Success of Saturday Night's Demonstration.

Nearly a Thousand Torches in the Procession—Four Bands—The Fire Works—Speeches.

The democrats of Janesville are highly elated at the success of their demonstration on Saturday evening. They claim that nothing like it ever occurred in Janesville before, and that it indicates that the people are almost unanimous for their ticket. A demonstration, under the circumstances, less in numbers, would have been a grand fizzle, and none are aware of this fact more than the managers. For weeks the democrats have been quietly at work canvassing the entire county, in the hopes of getting every able bodied democrat in Rock county to take part in this demonstration, and they succeeded very well. There are at least nine hundred regular democrats in this city. In the last presidential election General Hancock received 2,040 votes in the county, therefore they succeeded in getting out very nearly the entire able bodied force. Several persons counted the number in the line, which somewhat varies. The lowest number coming to our notice was 845, not including the musicians, and the highest 1,019 including everything. Of seven different persons making a count, the numbers were 845, 847, 858, 860, 885, 905 and 1,019. We will not dispute our democratic opponents when they say it was a good turn out, and will add that it was the largest torch light procession ever seen in this city, with but one exception—that of the Grant Tanners in 1868.

The procession was formed on West Milwaukee and High streets, but was delayed over an hour waiting for the Beloit and Rockton delegates. On the arrival of the Beloit train, bringing 275 uniformed men with the Beloit band, the procession was formed with Thoroughgood's cornet band on the right, followed by 62 mounted torch-bearers, the Beloit band and the Beloit and Rockton uniformed club, 275 strong, a martial band, followed by delegates from surrounding towns; the Bower City band, and the home democrats. There was no attempt at order outside the Beloit and Rockton club. Nevertheless the procession made a good appearance. The promised display of fire works was rather faint, and only consisted in burning red fire and the explosion of a very few inferior Roman candles. The people of Janesville turned out in large numbers, and the sidewalks in the business portions of the city were packed with spectators. The procession, throughout, was a jubilant one, and while there was no outbreaks of rowdyism, there was many hurrahs for Hendricks and Cleveland. The procession moved down Milwaukee street crossing the river, thence to East street to South Third, west on South Third to Main north on Main to Milwaukee where the procession was disbanded. The crowd then flocked to the opera house, where it was announced that General Stiles and Senator Delaney would speak. The opera house was packed, and another meeting was announced to take place in Lappin's hall, to be addressed by Senator Delaney, but the crowd were determined to remain at the opera house and the Lappin's hall meeting was given up.

General Stiles, of Chicago, was introduced by Mayor Alex. Richardson, and spoke for about one hour. The general is a good speaker, a capital story teller, and of course pleased the democrats immensely. He lampooned the republicans for what they had not accomplished, and slandered and belittle Blaine, at the same time holding Cleveland up as possessing all that was good and noble in man. He forgot to allude to Hendricks. General Stiles was frequently applauded by the democrats. Senator Delaney followed General Stiles, but the hour being late, he did not occupy much time.

The democrats are well pleased at the success of their demonstration.

A Walking Skeleton.

Mr. E. Springer, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: "I was afflicted with lung fever and abscess on lungs, and reduced to a walking Skeleton. Got a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery of Consumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles, found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 18 pounds."

Call at F. Sherer & Co's drugstore and get a free trial bottle of this certain cure for all Lung Diseases. Large bottles $1.

THE PROHIBITIONISTS.

They Meet to Nominate a County Ticket.

The prohibitionists assembled in the court house this afternoon, for the purpose of nominating a county ticket and electing delegates to the congressional convention at Whitewater. There was a very slim attendance, at half past one o'clock there were only twenty two persons present. Mr. Mills, inquired if it was any use to wait longer, Mr. Plumb answering that the time was up, and we had better get to business. At half past one o'clock the convention was called to order by Mr. D. L. Mills, of Evansville, who read the call.

On motion J. C. Plumb, of Milton, was elected chairman. Mr. Plumb took the chair and thanked the convention for the honor.

Reading Mr. Plumb's remarks some fifteen other persons entered the room and took seats.

Mr. W. H. Cory, of Milton, was elected as secretary.

On motion of J. F. Cleghorn, of Clinton, the convention continued as a mass convention, according to the published call.

The chair stated that the next order was the nomination of county officers.

Mr. Cleghorn moved that a committee, consisting of Mc Lean, of Beloit; Benson, of Clinton; and W. A. Lawrence, of Janesville be appointed to report names for county offices.

Mr. Lawrence suggested that a larger committee be appointed, and that seven be named.

Elder G. W. Lawrence thought the business could be accomplish better by the convention.

Mr. Cory did not like the principle of appointing a nominating committee.

The resolution was withdrawn.

Mr. Cleghorn moved that the convention proceed to nominate county officers.

Elder G. W. Lawrence, offered the following:

WHEREAS, In the advancement of any great principal through a political organization, it is needful to rally only our friends around us: therefore

Resolved, That in the selection of candidates by this convention for county officers we name only those who are willing to pledge their support to the prohibition ticket.

Mr. Corey nominated Mr. S. S. Obourn, of Milton, as a candidate, and on motion of W. A. Lawrence, Mr. Obourn was nominated for sheriff.

Mr. W. S. Squires, of Bradford, was nominated for register of deeds, on motion of W. A. Lawrence.

Mr. Joseph Snell, of Clinton, was nominated for treasurer.

Mr. W. H. Corey, of Milton, was nominated for clerk of the court.

Mr. S. G. Burdick, of Lima, was nominated for county clerk.

Mr. B. M. Malone was nominated for district attorney, but the Beloit delegation could not answer positively whether Mr. Malone would vote the national or state prohibition ticket, but thought he would vote for Blaine and Logan and for the prohibition state ticket.

Several speakers objected to the nomination of Mr. Malone, on the ground that he was not a prohibitionist.

The question declaring Mr. Malone the nominee for district attorney was put, and was lost by an overwhelming vote.

Mr. D. L. Mills, of Union, was nominated for district attorney on the motion of Revs. G. W. Lawrence and S. Lugg.

For county surveyor the convention made no nomination.

The committee was authorized to fill all blanks.

Mr. Watson, of Beloit, was nominated for coroner.

The nomination of county superintendent of schools was referred to the county committee.

On motion the convention elected as delegates to the congressional convention at Whitewater the following gentlemen: F. F. Livermore, of Beloit; George Stetson, of Spring Valley; J. M. Osborn, of Magnolia; D. L. Mills, of Union, and J. H. Chamberlain, of Beloit; Wm. A. Lawrence, city; G. J. Kellogg, of Rock; G. W. Lawrence, city; George Heild, city; J. S. Bliss, city; J. F. Creighton, Clinton, W. S. Squires of Bradford, Dr. B. Burdick, of Edgerton, J. C. Plumb, of Milton, John Hammond, of Clinton.

The delegates were empowered to appoint a substitute, and the delegates who do attend cast the full vote of the county.

The county committee was then appointed as follows: Messrs. D. L. Mills, J. C. Plumb, Wm. A. Lawrence, J. M Alden and J. M. Coumberlain.

The convention then, at the suggestion of Mr. Mills, passed the hat, to raise the sum of twenty-five dollars, pledged to the state committee by the Rock county delegation for the state campaign, and Mr. Mills reported that he had raised $18.50, and would like six dollars more

Mr. Mills offered a resolution for an enrollment of prohibitionists in each town, etc.

Mr. Cleghorn was in favor of assessing each town the sum of five dollars, and requesting the county committee to correspond with prohibitionists in towns to raise that sum for campaign use.

The convention then adjourned.

He Was Glad to Meet Him.

[Drake's Travelers' Magazine.]

As the train pulled out of Kansas City recently, bound west, a fine looking old gentleman, who occupied a seat in the smoking-car, was accosted by a rank-looking specimen of western humanity.

"Goin' far west, stranger?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," replied the old gentleman, politely; "I am going to Denver."

"Business or pleasure?"

"Chiefly for my health."

"Ah, yes, I see. From the east, ain't yer?"

"Yes, I am president of the Twenty fifth National bank of New York."

"You don't say so!" exclaimed the westerner. Then he added in a whisper: "Gin us yer hand, old pard. I'm right glad to meet yer. I'm a Missouri train robber."

Hindoo Life and Customs.

Last evening at the Congregational church a large audience listened with intense interest to Miss Bissell's account of Hindoo life and customs.

Miss Bissell is the daughter of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Bissell, missionairies of the American Board of missions at Ahmednugger, India, and spent her childhood in that city, coming to this country six or seven years ago for education. In her address, she appeared in the costume of a Hindoo lady of high caste, and represented a Brahmin wife and mother. She took her listeners in imagination into her house, showed them the various rooms with their furniture, told the daily routine, and made them acquainted with her husband and children. She wrought into her story social and religious customs in a way that made them real and touching beyond the power of any written description. The portrayal of the wretchedness and hopelessness of the lives of Hindoo women, was very vivid and her pathetic appeal for the light and help that christianity brings, must have given to many a very strong impression of their pressing need.

That her characterization of the Brahmin lady was artistically fine is shown by the fact that many of her audience supposed her to be in reality the Hindoo woman she represented, and the minister who presided, was deceived into prayer for Miss Bissell's conversion, thinking she was a veritable unconverted Hindoo!

LISZT IN RED, WHITE AND BLUE.

How the Master Gave Lessons on the Fourth of July.

[Weimar Cor. Providence Journal.]

Three days in every week since the last of May "Der Meister," as everybody in Weimar calls Liszt, has received his pupils. At 8:30 on the Fourth of July the latch on the tall gate began to click busily, until the fifteen Americans, who compriso a good half of the Lisztians, had assembled in the hall, waiting for the master to wake from his afternoon nap and the doors to be thrown open. "Yes. It had come," the valet assured us, smilingly, and we might see it if we liked. We tiptoed into the blue-walled dining-room. It stood on the table, and everybody whispered oh's and ah's at the handiwork of the deft-fingered sisters of the Carlsplatz, who had fulfilled our order with Chinese fidelity. On a background of English ivy, three feet long and two feet high, hung an American flag of red and white roses and corn flowers. Little white star flowers against the blue of the "Kaiser blume," as the emperor's favorite flower is called, indicated the states which the donors represented. The flag-pole of red oak leaves was surmounted by a ball of Marechal Niel buds. The flag hung diagonally, to which the uneven outline of the roses gave the appearance of having been ruffled by an adventurous breeze and was in lively contrast to the dried wreaths of laurel which hung around upon the walls.

A rustle of preparation was heard in the salon, the doors were thrown open and over the threshold stood the "Lieber Meister." His long white hair seemed like a silver setting to his fine old features, his arm was uplifted with a grand gesture, as if dismissing some choice spirit of air with whom he had been holding communion, that he might return to the mundane reality of giving a music lesson. A smile of welcome, which actually seemed to make the room grow brighter, lit up his face. Mrs. Peterslee and Mrs. Lockmund, the youthful chaperones of the party, presented the flag, and, after a few happy words of explanation as to this particular occasion and our national festival, the remaining thirteen entered, brave with badges of red, white and blue ribbons.

"Would the master do us the honor to wear our colors for the day?" somebody asked. Indeed he would, with the greatest pleasure. So a knot of ribbon was pinned to his coat, and he sat down beside the piano, with the remark:

"Oh, you Americans! You are great people!"

Nearly all the Americans played that day. During the lesson the master humorously inquired, as some new pupil took his seat: "He's one of our countrymen, is he not?"

After the lesson we separated, to meet later at a supper.

The Power of France.

[Courrier des Etats Unis.]

We have often heard the question, "How would it be if Germany, seizing the moment when France is engaged with Tonquin, with China, and even with England, would suddenly turn about and declare war against her?" The answer is simple. France would appeal to her army, and to her fleet, and would fight. It is not because she happens to have a few thousand soldiers and marines, principally marines, occupied in Asia and Africa, that she can be taken at a disadvantage, or that her military power can be compromised. All her forces actually engaged are independent of her regular organization. Her nineteen army corps and their reserves are intact and ready to be mobilized at the first signal, and her 144 regiments of the territorial army can be put on a war footing in twenty-four hours. Intact also is her magnificent fleet of iron-clads, which is inferior to none, and which is amply able to hold its own against any other that might challenge it.

It would be a dangerous error to judge the France of 1884 by the France of 1871. Then she had no army; now she has, and knows how to use it. The France of 1884 is a power that attacks nobody, and fears nobody. Mr. Bismarck knows this as well as anybody in the world, and it is for this reason that he tries to be on better terms with France. If she was feeble and at the mercy of Germany, is it likely that the German chancellor would be so polite to her, and would make the advances that he now lavishes upon her? From 1871 to 1875 he never for a moment departed from his haughty and aggressive attitude. But this attitude became gradually toned down as France became an adversary more one more formidable.

Now he is more conciliatory than ever—almost friendly, because of the daily progress of our armaments, especially our artillery and service of mobilization. Let those who honor us with their solicitude be without fear. China, Tonquin and Madagascar cannot constitute a sufficient embarrassment to paralyze the active forces of France, and to expose her without defense to the attacks of Germany, including also the warlike volleities of England. This is as well known in Berlin as it is in London, and neither Mr. Bismarck nor Mr. Gladstone would like to take the risks of such an adventure.

An Improvement in Nails.

[New York Journal of Commerce.]

A dispatch from Pittsburg states that if the steel nails proved a success the experiment would revolutionize the trade, as a few men could do the work of hundreds. This has created no little excitement, and we have received a number of letters asking how this could be, and by what process the saving is effected.

The reason why the steel nails can be made with less labor than the iron nails is because the steel itself is made by the Bessemer process, which turns out immense quantities by very simple machinery, while in the case of iron used for nails the process is by hand, very laborious and slow. A Bessemer converter can make from 120 to 250 tons of steel per day, simply by the help of a few men to attend machinery. It is an enlarged foundry process, where metal is melted and operated upon chemically. This metal is poured out into ingots, and these ingots are heated and rolled into steel nail-plate and cut the same as the iron nail-plates.

But the case is different with the plates for iron nails. First the pig-iron is put in a puddling furnace, a half-ton at a time, and worked laboriously by the two men, a puddler and a helper, for an hour and a half. Five "heats" constitute ordinarily a day's work, and the product is in the neighborhood of a ton or a ton and a quarter of iron, which is heated and worked into nail-plate and cut to convenient lengths to be handled by the nail cutters. Twenty puddlers and helpers might turn out twelve to fifteen tons of iron plate in a day, but the same force at a Bessemer plant might turn out ten to twenty times that quantity of steel.

Concerning the Giraffe.

[Burlington Hawkeye.]

"The female giraffe has a tongue seventeen inches long but she can't talk," says The Bismarck Tribune, and then adds, "Now we know why a giraffe wears such a sad and subdued expression." That isn't what ails the gentleman giraffe, however. He has a neck seventeen feet long and can't drink beer. Hence.

AT

M. C. Smith's New York Cash Store,

For the Fall Trade of

Ladies' Garments,

consisting of

Dolmans, Sacks, Paletots, New Markets, Russian Circulars

Etc. We have these garments in Seal Plush, Plain and Brocaded Silk, and Plaid Diagonal Bavears.

To sum up the matter in a few words, we shall open on Tuesday, September 2d, 1884, the largest and best assortment of ladies fine garments ever shown in the interior of the state. We gave very large orders July 1st, to three different manufacturers of these goods, in order to have our goods made in the dull season of the year, when good help could be obtained to make garments, consequently our garments are much better made than garments are that are made late in the season when everybody is in a hurry, and manufacturers have to take any work they can get. Our garments are all tailor made, far superior to any that will be found at any other house in the city. It is a well known fact that we have taken the entire lead in the sale of ladies fine garments for the past two years, particularly Fine Seal Plush Sacques, Dolmans and Circulars, running in price from $25 to $75. In these goods we defy all competition.

We propose this year to beat any of our former efforts. We have the goods now ready for sale. Parties intending to buy garments this season the sooner they buy them the better the assortment will be to select from. We have now on hand a full assortment of sizes. Last season we had a good deal of trouble in getting sizes late in the season, and had to wait a long time to get them, and the garments were not so well made at that time of year, as they had to be rushed through.

We defy any house in Janesville to show as fine a stock of Seal Plush and Brocade Silk garments as we have at the present time.

We have just received three tons at one shipment of garments. We are told that we can never sell the amount of garments we have just received. We know we can for these garments will sell themselves. All we have to do is to show them.

Ladies desiring fine garments are respectfully requested to call early before the sizes are broken. Also a large stock of misses' and children's garments just received, very cheap. M. C. SMITH.
